PREFACE

A historical šematism is a survey which covers a certain span of time and offers a spectrum of facts which put those facts into perspective. The basic information for such a survey necessarily depends upon records which were either published or at least kept in various archives.

For the Eparchy of Peremyśl', such records are not always easy to find. The eparchy and the Apostolic Administration of Lemkivščyna disappeared from the maps after the ethnic cleansing of the 1940's, and a strong attempt was made to make them also disappear from historical memory.

The present work, a historical šematism of the Eparchy of Peremyśl and the Apostolic Administration of Lemkivščyna, covers the period from 1828 to 1939. It is to a great extent based on information from the šematisms of Peremyśl' which were published in those years, many of which are not easily accessible to the general public. It gives information about deaneries, parishes, church buildings, priests and statistics of the faithful, with additional information when it was possible to collect it.

Of the churches under Polish domination, very few escaped destruction or occupation by Latin rite or Orthodox congregations. The map included at the end of the book shows where these churches were in 1939, with outlines of the deaneries as they were in that year. It is a memorial cemetery map of deaneries and churches. It gives a picture of the extent of Ukrainian territory on which Ukrainian people for centuries had lived, and the churches where they prayed under the leadership of their priests. The long annotated list of priests in the book are memorial lists, since most of their and their parishioners' graves and records have been destroyed.

The present work is a history of the past. People who forget their past do not deserve a future.

BIBLIOGRAPHY and ABBREVIATIONS

- ŠemPerem From 1828 until 1939, there were 87 šematisms used in the collection of information for this book. A number were not published on account of wars, etc. For the missing years it was possible to piece together most of the lacunae. The abbreviation is followed by the year in brackets. The re-established eparchy published a šematism in 1994, which I have used chiefly to make note of re-established parishes since it is not within the scope of the book to cover the period after World War II.
- ŠemLemk The šematism for the Apostolic Administration of Lemkivščyna was published only once - in 1936, and was reprinted in Stamford, Connecticut in 1970 by Vasyl' Lencyk. It is full of extra information regarding the history of the parishes and villages in that part of the Eparchy of Peremyśl' which was separated in 1934.
- CR IVANUSIW, OLEH WOŁODYMYR, Church in Ruins, St. Catharines, Ontario 1987. 350 pages of full color photographs of all existing Ukrainian Catholic Churches which ended up in Poland after World War II and many sketches of those which were destroyed. Most of the information about the present state of the churches I have taken from this book. The author has informed me that a second book is in preparation which will include the churches in the other part of the eparchy.

NOTES TO THE READER

TRANSLITERATION AND SPELLING

□ The Slavic Institute of Paris method of transliteration from the Cyrillic alphabet into the Latin alphabet has been used throughout.

In the alphabetical lists, the letters č, š, šč and ž have been alphabetized as regular latin letters, except when they appear as the first letters of a proper name, in which case they are alphabetized separately in order to avoid confusion in finding the names.

□ All place names are transliterated from the Cyrillic as they were spelled in the [1934] šematism.

□ Because many of the old spellings or polonized names were considerably different from the [1934] spellings, see references have been included in the alphabetical index of churches.

□ Throughout the section on parishes, filial churches and localities, the old spelling(s) are given in parentheses after the names of main churches, e.g. Hlynyci [Gnojnice].

□ Some additions to place name are interchangeable. Vyžnyj, horišnyj, górny are equivalent, as are nyžnyj, dolišnyj and dolny. It was not always possible to be consistent in the lists, but the Polish expressions - górny and dolny - have not been used.

EXPLANATIONS, SPECIAL SIGNS AND ABBREVIATIONS

GENERAL

□ Years which are enclosed in brackets e.g. [1879], refer to the year of the šematism in which the information was found. It should be understood, therefore, that the actual year is frequently a year earlier, so that [1879] usually means 1878, because of the lapse of time between the collection of the information and the time of printing.

PARISHES

□ With regard to information about the dates when churches were built, the churches which existed in [1939] (or [1936] for those who went to Lemkivščyna) are first given, followed by whatever information I could find about earlier churches. A great number of these churches were only the last of a long succession of wooden churches, which were vulnerable to fire and other disasters, and should not be understood as being the first Ukrainian Catholic churches in the city or village. Unfortunately, much information about churches earlier than the 17th century seems to be irretrievably lost. When there is a discrepancy in the reporting of the years for the building of a church, they are written with a slash - earliest/latest, e.g. 1876/80.

□ Information as to canonical visitations has been included only when it serves as an indication to the existence of an earlier church. More extensive information on visitations in the 19th century and sometimes in the 18th century can be found in the [1899] šematism. For the 20th century, this information is not included in the šematisms.

PRIESTS

□ Priests were not designated as married (mar.), widower (wid.) or celibate (cel.) until [1858]. Therefore [1858] is the earliest year in which it is noted that a married priest's wife had died. After that time, the year given in the column for this information is the first year in which he is designated as a widower rather than as a married priest.

□ In the column for the assignments for the priests, their chief positions in the eparchy are listed chronologically. It was not possible to include civil appointments, military awards, literary works or honorary titles. Work outside the eparchy is sometimes included in order to give a more complete idea of the life work of each priest, especially for the later priests who went to diaspora.

□ Parish assignments were pastor, unless otherwise noted, temporary administrator (adm.), administrator of local chapel (adm. ch.), assistant (ass't) or independent assistant, also known as "cooperator expositus" (coop.) Other assignments, such as eparchial curia positions, professor, army chaplain, etc. are specified as necessary. The category of administrators of chapels was eliminated in 1886.

□ In the alphabetical lists for religious priests, the monastery in which the priest resided is marked with the sign ♦. For instance if a priest was reported in the šematisms as being at the monastery in Drohobyč for the years 1879 (a definite appointment) until [1886] (notice of his residence there, in the šematism of that year), it would appear as follows: ♦Drohobyč 1879-[1886]. A note of warning - the personal information in the šematisms for religious priests, especially in the earlier books, is very inexact; the dates on these lists are the ones most frequently given for births and ordinations.

STATISTICS

PARISH STATISTICS

□ When the statistics for a main church include those of its filial churches and/or localities, they are either given separately for the filial churches and localities, or they are included in the statistics of the main church. When they are included in those of the main church the expression in matre is used. If they are recorded separately, two sets of statistics appear for the main church, e.g. those included for the main church itself and the total statistics for the main church and all dependents.

DEANERY STATISTICS

□ Statistics for the deaneries are reported as printed in the respective šematisms for each year, unless there is an obvious mistake, in which case the number of faithful reported in the parishes was retotaled. The corrected totals are always marked with an *.

GENERAL EPARCHIAL STATISTICS

□ Total numbers of priests are extremely difficult to ascertain for each year. The šematisms give these numbers by categories which are not always the same from year to year, and it is never clear whether a priest could belong to more than one category. I have tried to get the total as well as possible, even including the newly ordained priests in the number. In the later šematisms the number was obtainable by getting the total of married, celibate and widowed priests. When the information was included in the annual summaries, I also noted the number of celibate priests. In the earlier years only rarely was an eparchial priest ordained as celibate, and the celibate priests were frequently sent for further study or marked for a higher position in the eparchy.

□ The religious priests can be totaled fairly accurately because they are listed under their monasteries, and as far as possible they are not included in the total of the eparchial priests, although several were doing parish work and the distinction is not always clear.

□ Main churches are defined as churches which are listed by number under the deaneries, whether they are parishes, local chapels or independent assistantships. The annual totals given for main churches have been calculated by totaling the numbers from all the deaneries, no matter what number is printed in the annual summaries. For the most part they agree, but not always. Filial churches are a bigger problem and I did the best I could to give an accurate number.

□ Students (sem.) are all those studying in L'viv, Peremyšl', Vienna, Rome or elsewhere.

□ OSBM lay brothers (OSBM brs.) and women religious (srs) include only professed religious.

□ Corrections in the deanery statistics cause a change in the general population totals for each year. In such cases, the corrected annual deanery statistics are marked with an * and the annual total populations for the eparchy are placed under the printed total populations. Unfortunately, there may have been mistakes I missed, because if the deanery statistics were reasonable, I did not check them. Otherwise, the work would never have been finished for publication.

INTRODUCTION

Some authors affirm that the Peremyśl Eparchy was founded by disciples of Sts. Cyril and Methodius towards the end of the ninth century. There are ruins of a rotunda in Peremyśl' which might be the cathedral of that time. The first concrete mention of the existence of the eparchy is from the year 1220 in the annals of Novhorod (1 and 4), in which it is stated that in that year the Metropolitan of Kyiv appointed Bishop Antin of Novhorod to the See of Peremyśl'. From that time on there exists a nearly continuous list of bishops of Peremyśl' until the present day.

The eparchial chapter - krylos - and the eparchial consistory were instrumental in the administration of the eparchy. The chapter was made up of the archpriest, archdeacon, the custos and later [in c.1836] also the scholasticus, and a group of other members (usually 4 or 5) called the canonici gremiales. The consistory included the chapter members with a number of other members of the clergy who ran the chancery office and/or held various other positions in the eparchy. Both the chapter and the consistory had chancellors, although in fact the position of chapter chancellor was almost never filled and the duties were performed by the consistory chancellor.

The chapter or krylos was an old Ukrainian institution and acted mainly as an advisory board to the bishops. Its membership consisted of the pastors of the churches in the bishop's city and the surrounding area. Between the years 1335 and 1689, mentions are made in 111 contemporary documents, mostly dealing with the approval of appointments and matters of dispute. During Polish times the bishops were often appointed from the lower class nobility and the krylosy were in great part neglected. Bishop I. Vynnyč'kyj revived the krylos on October 18, 1687. On May 5, 1689, King Jan Sobieski approved the appointment of 12 persons (6 prelates and 6 canons) to the krylos. When Austria took over, Joseph II sanctioned their existence, but it was not a formal approval. On the initiative of Bishop Myxajlo Levyc'kyj on April 20, 1816 the bylaws and the establishment of the krylosy of both Peremyśl' and L'viv were formally approved by Emperor

Franz I of Austria. On July 12, 1864, the krylosy of both Peremyśl' and L'viv were approved by Pope Pius IX¹.

The consistory was established in the eparchy on August 27, 1787².

It is difficult to ascertain anything definite about the boundaries of the eparchy in the early times. Probably they were not much changed through the centuries from the princely period. On the east there was the extensive See of Halyč, later of L'viv. On the south there were some connections with Trascarpathian territories, on which the Eparchy of Mukačiv was established, but they were not durable. On the west there were the Latin rite Polish territories of the See of Kraków, which was continuously encroaching upon the territory and faithful of the Eparchy of Peremyśl' under Polish and even under Austrian domination. On the north there was the Eparchy of Xolm, which had included the regions of Xolm and Belz since the princely period. The northern boundaries were stable until 1772 when Austria took part of the Eparchy of Xolm, most of which then became part of the Eparchy of Peremyśl' (Bishop Maksymylijan Rylo of Xolm became Bishop of Peremyśl') and some of the parishes from Xolm went to the Archeparchy of L'viv after a few years.

The administrative division of the eparchy was no doubt only slowly organized through the centuries, and in the last couple of centuries under Polish domination it was probably very little changed. The administration of the parishes in the eparchy was divided into deaneries, each of which included a number of parishes, filial churches and localities. Each deanery had a dean, a vice-dean, sometimes a librarian, and later gradually a supervisor of education was added.

² NABYWANIEC, Op. cit., pp. 81-86.

When Austria took over, Maria Theresa (+1780) and especially her son, Joseph II (1780-1790), made a number of political changes and tried to adapt the boundaries of the deaneries to the political division of the territory. In 1772, in the Eparchy of Peremyśl there were the following deaneries and parishes:³

1. Balyhorod	41	17. Mušyna	46
2. Bič	39	18. Nyžankovyci	34

15. Mokrajany	48	31. Zatvirnycja	42
16. Mostys'ka	39	32. Žukotyn	36

In 1772, the following deaneries and parishes were added to the Eparchy of Peremyśl' from the Eparchy of Xolm:⁴

From Xolm circle		From Belz circle
1. Hrabovec'	24	1. Belz	31
2. Horodlo	18	2. Bus'k	21
3. Hrubešiv	25	3. Potylyč	30

		9. Tomašiv	24
		10. Uljaniv	30
		11. Varenž	27

³ Ibid., p. 96.

⁴ Ibid., p. 34.

On August 20, 1787, Bishop Rylo ceded seven deaneries to the Archeparchy of L'viv: Busno, Horodok, Radexiv, Skolje, Stryj, Stremil'če and Ščurovec', and Bishop Biljans'kyj of L'viv ceded three to the Eparchy of Peremyšl': Horožanna, Kulykiv and Žovkva⁵. About the same time the deaneries of Krosno, Busk, Stojaniv, Stremil'če and Ščurovec' were abolished⁶.

On Nov. 8, 1782, Josyf II issued a decree that the smaller parishes were to be made filial churches and that the deaneries were to be reorganized according to the boundaries of the political districts. Two new deaneries were thus created, Ol'xovec'kyj and Ustic'ky⁷. In the Balyhorods'kyj Deanery, for example, from 40 parishes and 2 filial churches there were supposed to remain 20 parishes; in the Jaslys'kyj Deanery, from 20 parishes and 2 filial churches there were to remain 13 parishes; in the Sjanic'kyj deanery from 35 parishes there were to remain 16 parishes (4 were to be transferred to the new Ol'xovec'kyj Deanery)⁸. This seems not completely to have been put into practice, however.

Parishes were sometimes moved from one deanery to another. For example, in 1786 in the Jaroslavs'kyj deanery there were registered 40 parishes of which 6 had been taken [since 1784] from the Olešyc'kyj Deanery, and 5 from the Peremys'kyj deanery.⁹

Parishes were occasionally transferred to other eparchies. At some time before 1786, five parishes [Jarembina, Jakubiany, Kaminka, Litmanova and Solin, with the filial church of Krompy] were taken from the Eparchy of Peremysl' and given to the Eparchy of Mukačiv. By [1836] they had been transferred to the Eparchy of Prjašiv.¹⁰

Often there is a discrepancy in the numbers reported, augmented by the fact that not all churches were parishes, and many of the priests were not pastors but administrators of chapels. According to a report in 1772 from Bishop Šeptyc'kyj to Nuncio J. Grampi there were 1,253 parishes in the Eparchy of Peremyšl'. Another report gives the number as 1,258 parishes, and states that in the period from acceptance of Union with Rome until 1772 there had been an increase of 133 parishes¹¹. In 1772, 342 churches were added to the Eparchy of Peremyśl' from the Eparchy of Xolm¹². In the years 1773-1782 the number of churches in the Eparchy of Peremyśl' was given as 1,660. According to a report of August 12, 1786 the number was 1,547 parishes; there were 386 parishes vacant, of which 208 did not get a priest¹³.

From 1772 (year of the Austrian occupation of Halyčyna and Xolm) until 1809, the whole Zamojs'kyj Circle, consisting of the Deaneries of "Zamoscensis, Tomaszovens, Grabovscensis, Szczepreszynensis, Hodlensis, Rubiszoviensis and Belzensis", formerly belonging to the Eparchy of Xolm, had been transferred to the Eparchy of Peremyśl'. After 1809, only the Belz'kyj Deanery remained in the eparchy. In 1809, the Tamogrodensis Deanery was transferred to the Eparchy of Xolm¹⁴.

There are complete lists of the number of parishes of 1790-1795,¹⁵ and of the deaneries of 1794 with numbers of population¹⁶. In 1794 there were 47 deaneries with a population of 577,282. These lists combined give us an image of the eparchy in the years 1790-1795:

x – not listed in the list of 1790-1795, but in the population list.

* – In the list of deaneries and parishes with number of parishes, not under the year 1790, but under 1791-1795.

There were usually 5-6 persons per family. For example:¹⁷

	families	persons	persons per family
1. Balyhorod	1,545	6,168	5.9
2. Birča	2,773	13,654	4.9

4. Lisko	1,194	7,425	6.2
5. Sjanik	2,246	11,884	5.3

The dean did not always reside in the city for which the deanery was named. For example in the year 1784:¹⁸

Name of deanery	residence	Name of deanery	residence
1. Balyhorod	Terka	4. Lisko	Monastyrec'

Many cities and villages had churches, either main churches or filial churches. Besides, there existed a considerable number of localities without churches. For example:¹⁹

The number of diocesan priests was continuously diminishing. Vacant parishes were administered by neighboring priests, or were reduced permanently to filial or dependent churches, which caused the actual number of parishes to diminish also. For example:²⁰

Between the years 1787 and 1795 the total number of priests (some were neither pastors nor administrators) had decreased from 1,438 to 1,118²¹. In some years more priests had died than had been ordained and a number of priests left Halyčyna for other places outside Austria. Between November 1, 1786 and November 1, 1787 there were 142 priests who left Halyčyna²².

By 1828 there were 39 deaneries - dekanaty - in the Eparchy of Peremyšl':

In 1843 the Korosnjans'kyj Deanery was separated from Jaslys'kyj, bringing the total number of deaneries to 40, and in 1875 the Tartakivs'kyj Deanery was suppressed, bringing to total back to 39.

In 1875, after considerable machination on the part of russophile clergy and politicians, especially of Markel Popel', a Catholic priest who became administrator of the eparchy in 1871, the Ukrainian Catholics were either latinized, converted to Orthodoxy, killed or driven out of the territory of the former Catholic See, which "accepted" union with Moscow. Glinka quotes Likowski thus: "...incorporated into the Orthodox Church were 204 priests, 40 of whom were from Halyčyna and 160 were students from the eparchial seminary of Xolm, and 250,000 faithful."

"The data could be made more complete by adding that 66 priests remained faithful to Catholicity and were expelled or fled to Halyčyna, 74 priests were deported or imprisoned and 7 priests were killed. As for the faithful, 108 were killed, and 600 were deported in the region of Xerson and Jekaterinoslav and 40 families made destitute..."²³ Glinka states that the additional data are incomplete

²³ GLINKA, LUIGI Diocesi ucraino-cattolica di Xolm (liquidazione ed incorporazione alla Chiesa russo-ortodossa) Analecta OSBM, Opera 30. Rome 1975, p.93. The book gives a thorough description of the question with documentation. [The See of Xolm had its beginnings when the See of Uhrivsk was transferred to Xolm after the Tartars destroyed Kyiv in 1240. With the Union of Berestja in 1596, during the time of Bishop Dionysij Zbyrujs'kyj (1858-1603+), the eparchy had accepted union with Rome.]

[and therefore understated]. In 1875 there was an influx of priests coming from the Eparchy of Xolm to the Eparchy of Peremyśl'.

In [1879], 37 priests are listed as coming to the eparchy from Xolm²⁴.

After World War I, there was a drastic rearrangement of the deaneries, in which the parishes were divided in more close alignment with the political povits than they had been before the war. 30 of the former deaneries remained, although many of the parishes were taken to form new deaneries. 23 new deaneries were created and 9 former deaneries were suppressed. One more new deanery was created in [1930].

In 1934, 9 deaneries were taken from the Eparchy of Peremyšl' to form the Apostolic Administration of Lemkivščyna:

Bukivs'kyj	11 parishes	Korosnjans'kyj	7 parishes
Dukljans'kyj	17 parishes	Mušyns'kyj	18 parishes
Dynivs'kyj	10 parishes	Rymanivs'kyj	16 parishes
Horlyc'kyj	18 parishes	Sjanic'kyj	14 parishes
Hrybivs'kyj	10 parishes

According to the Šematism of Peremyšl' [1994], there are 7 deaneries in the Eparchy of Peremyšl', which was restored in 1991.

El'blonz'kyj	13 parishes	Peremys'kyj	24 parishes
Ol'štyns'kyj	19 parishes	Vroclavs'kyj	13 parishes
Kośalins'kyj	20 parishes	Zelenohirs'kyj	12 parishes
Krakivs'ko-Krynyc'kyj	15 parishes

Seven former deaneries of the Eparchy of Peremyšl' belonged after World War II to the Archeparchy of L'viv according to the Šematism of L'viv [1991]. When the Eparchy of Sambir/Drohobyč was created in 1992, the new eparchy was made up of the southeastern deaneries formerly belonging to the Eparchy of Peremyšl'.

The northeastern deaneries, formerly belonging to the Eparchy of Peremyšl' have been divided between the Archeparchy of L'viv and the newly created Eparchy of Zboriv.

Before the foundation of the General Seminary in L'viv in 1783, most of the clergy were formed with only sparse education, which they were given at home by their priest fathers –usually a scanty minimum.

Empress Maria Theresa of Austria in 1775 founded a central seminary in Vienna called the «Barbareum» for 46 Byzantine (Greek) Catholic students in the empire, and it lasted until 1784. For students from Halyčyna there were places for 6 from L'viv, 6 from Peremyśl' and 2 Basilians²⁵.

When the General Seminary was established in Lviv on June 30, 1783 in the former Dominican monastery,²⁶ for Ukrainian students of Halyčyna there were assigned 57, then 70, and finally 60 places, of which 20 were allotted for the Eparchy of Peremyśl'. The period of study was 6 years, of which the last year was to be done in the student's own eparchial seminary, in the presbiterial house. There they had to study homiletics and pastoral theology, and learn to celebrate the liturgical services. The time of study was shortened in 1790 to 4 years. The presbiterial house was founded in Peremyśl by the government on August 14, 1786 in the former Carmelite monastery. There were never very many students in the presbiterial house. For example there were these students in the following years:²⁷

1788	11	1790	9	1792	5

The courses of theology were in the Latin language. For Ukrainian students who did not know Latin, in 1787 was opened the «Studium Ruthenum» with courses in Ukrainian, which lasted until 1803, when Ukrainian students could understand Latin better. The General Seminary was closed in 1790, but at the request of the bishops, it lasted for Ukrainian students until 1893, until the Peremyśl' and Stanyslaviv eparchies opened their own seminaries²⁸. Previous to 1893, the seminary in Peremyśl' had taken care of only 4th year theology students, the younger ones attending the General Seminary. The students from Stanyslaviv shared the Archeparchial Seminary of L'viv until January, 1907²⁹.

Two hundred florins were assigned for the support of the students. If there was not enough place in the seminary building, some students willing to study theology could get permission to live outside and study as externists, frequenting all courses and church services like the students living in the seminary. For their support they received 150 florins paid monthly by the rector, under whose jurisdiction they were all the time³⁰.

The priests were supposed to continue their religious education after ordination. To assure that this was done, four written trimestral examinations were introduced in the deaneries and it was the dean's duty to report to the chancery the names of those who presented themselves for the examinations and the result of the examinations. In addition, catechetical courses were organized for the clergy³¹.

Study in the seminaries was not a free gift from the government - neither in Vienna nor in L'viv. The bishops had to pay for each student and the money had to be collected from their clergy. If not enough could be collected, the government paid the difference from the Religious Fund. After ordination or leaving his study, the student had to repay the amount used for him to the Religious Fund³².

It was the merit of the government that it forced the bishops to be concerned with the education of their clergy and forbade them to ordain candidates without education. It also obliged the clergy to deliver sermons and to teach catechism.

It was decided on June 17, 1786 that the monthly income of each pastor was to be 300 florins, and that of assistants 150 florins. If this sum was unobtainable from regular sources, the difference would be supplied from the Religious Fund. For retired and disabled priests 200 florins were assigned from the Religious Fund. The Religious Fund was established by Joseph II from the sale of confiscated church properties in Halyčyna, mostly of Latin rite monasteries and of some Ukrainian monasteries. Its combined worth was 27,814,003 florins, which sum was located in banks at 5% interest³³.

For the needs of the eparchy, the bishops collected from the parishes, with the help of the deans, an annual cathedraticum which was assigned by the eparchial consistory. It was to be paid in florins by the deaneries for example:³⁴

1. Balyhorod	439	4. Drohobyč	818
2. Birča	444	5. Sjanik	428
3. Dobromyl'	509	6. Žovkva	314

The Ukrainian Catholic population continued to grow during the years 1828-1939, the period covered in this work. The growth was in spite of the conditions under which the people lived. Epidemics spread throughout the region periodically, especially virulently in the years 1831-1832 and in 1847. The nature of typhus, typhoid fever, cholera and "recurrent fever" were practically unknown at that time and the people had no idea how these fevers were spread or how to protect themselves against them. Hospital care was almost non-existent until the mid nineteenth century.

A considerable number of Ukrainians were farmers, and were at the mercy, not only of crop failure, locust hordes, blights, oppression from landlords, etc., but also had to face the enmity and distrust of their neighbors - of the Poles because they were too "eastern" and of the Russians because they were too "western". The Ukrainian desire for self determination and independence was a constant source of irritation to both Poland and Russia and over the centuries the people have paid an enormous price for this desire. The "ethnic cleansing" which took place after each of the two World Wars are only too well known in the history of the Ukrainian people, and were not the only occasions of conflict.

By the end of the 19th century, the Ukrainians had begun to emigrate to other countries in the New World, and in the years up to 1914, massive emigrations had taken place - to Canada, the United States, Brazil and Argentina. After World War II, another wave of emigrations took place, this time also to western European countries and to Australia. Those who remained on their native soil faced the possibility of being transported by force to Siberia or other places in the Soviet Union, or, for those in the Polish part of the eparchy, of being deported to the Soviet Union, to the western provinces of Poland or to the former German territories given to Poland in 1944 according to the Treaty of Yalta.

³⁴ Ibid. p. 195.

In 1944, the western part of the Eparchy of Peremyśl' and the whole Apostolic Administration of Lemkivščyna came under Polish domination, and the eastern part came under the Soviets. On February 4, 1949, the Archbishop of Warsaw, Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, was nominated by Rome as Special Delegate for Eastern Rite Catholics in Poland. He directed religious matters for the Ukrainians through vicar generals appointed by him - Father Vasyl' Hrynyk, who held the position until his death on May 31, 1977, then Father Stefan Dzubyna, first as Vicar General and then as "Vicar Capitularis" until 1981. On September 18, 1981 the Archbishop of Warsaw, Josyf Cardinal Glemp, was appointed as Ordinary for Greek Catholics in Poland, and he appointed two vicars general - Father Ivan Martynjak for the 2 southern deaneries of Peremyśl' and Wrocław, and Father Josafat Romanyk, OSBM, for the 2 northern deaneries of Koszalin and Olsztyn.

Father Martynjak, who had already been consecrated as Auxiliary Bishop for Eastern Rite Catholics in Poland on October 16, 1989 in Częstochowa, was nominated as Eparch of Peremyśl' on January 16, 1991 and the Eparchy was re-established. He was enthroned on April 13, 1991 in Peremyśl'.

Ukrainians are now established in eparchies in Western Europe, North and South America and Australia. Many of the first priests came from the Eparchy of Peremyśl' to administer to the religious needs of the early Ukrainian Catholic emigrants. The Ukrainian Catholic Church survived both underground in their own lands, and in diaspora where they now have 15 eparchies. Now that Ukraine is independent, the future is in the hands of God, the strong faith of the people, and the responsibility of its ecclesiastical leadership. That will be for future historians to relate...

Cathecheta scholarum Normalium in Sjanik

Ivan Venkovs'kyj [1830]-1843, director

(OSBM monasteries had their own studies)

Library of the Greek Catholic Chapter of Peremyšl' Snihursko-Lavrivskijana

donated to the chapter by Bishop Ivan Snihurs'kyj and Father Ivan Lavrovs'kyj in 1830

The library was compiled through the efforts of Father Lavrovs'kyj, the curator of the eparchial library [later archdeacon], who had acquired the additional holdings by means of donations and purchases of private libraries at public auction. In [1831] it contained 30,000 volumes and 300 manuscripts, as well as numerous incunabli, a collection of paintings of famous men and a collection of coins. The additions considerably enlarged the previous eparchial library which already consisted of 2,000 volumes and many manuscripts.

Typographia Episcopalis

approved by the government on February 10, 1829

From 1829 until 1840 the printing house was one of the benefices of the cathedral. On 24.08.1840 the printing house was given by Bishop Snihurs'kyj to the Chapter, and the gift was confirmed by the Austrian government on April 4, 1843. Its income was meant to provide support for the Chancellor of the Chapter, but the funds were not sufficient and the post of chancellor remained vacant.

ST. BASIL THE GREAT

Historical Data: Potelyc'kyj Deanery, then Ravs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1756/8, was transported to Belzec' in 1838 and was renovated in 1910. At present it is being used as a storeroom for a nearby school.

Belzec' was a filial church of Lyps'ko from 1813 until 1845 when Lyps'ko was divided into two curatorships, Belzec' and Krupec', each with an independent administrator. In 1887 Belzec' was made an independent parish. For details on the early history, see the historical data for the parish of Krupec'.

In Belzec' there was also a chapel of Sts. Peter and Paul.

CIRCUMCISION OF JESUS CHRIST

Historical Data: Birčans'kyj Deanery, then Dynivs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church (Circumcision) was built in 1879, replacing an older wooden church (St. Nicholas) which existed at least as early as [1828] and was visited in 1836 by Bishop Snihurs'kyj. It is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.

The village was founded in 1402. In [1828] it was an independent parish, then from [1830] until 1866 it was a filial church of Uljuč. In 1866 it became an independent church again.

Next to the church is a large bell tower of architectural interest, dating from the 17th century, and in the village there is a roadside shrine.⁶⁰

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

FL'ORYNKA (Florynka), povit HrybivST. MICHAEL

Historical Data: Mušyns'kyj Deanery, then Hrybivs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church was built in 1875, replacing an older wooden church of the same name which existed at least as early as [1830]. The Ukrainians were deported a few days after Easter in 1947 and the pastor, o. .A. Abramovyč, was sent to a concentration camp in Javoržne.⁶⁶ The building is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.

At one time there was also a wooden chapel of the Most Holy Trinity, but it is not mentioned in the later šematisms.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

HLADYŠIV (Gładyszów), povit HorlyciST. MICHAEL*ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST

Historical Data: Byč'kyj Deanery, then Horlyc'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church of St. Michael, built in 1857, was burned down in 1914 and a provisory chapel

(St. John the Baptist, built in 1856) was used until 1940 when the church of St. John the Baptist was built. After the Ukrainians were expelled, the church was taken by the Latin rite Catholics, who renamed it Ascension of Our Lord. The chapel is being used by the Orthodox.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

In 1985, since some of the people had returned, Ukrainian Catholic services were again allowed on holydays which came on weekends. Re-established in 1985, it is now a Ukrainian Catholic parish in the Krakivs'ko-Krynyc'kyj Deanery.

HLUDNO (Hhudno), povit Bereziw

ST. PARASKEVIJA

Historical Data: Birčans'kyj Deanery, then Dyniv's'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church (now destroyed) was built in 1898 and was renovated in 1931. It replaced an older wooden church of the same name which existed at least as early as [1828].

On January 23, 1593, the owner, Katerina Waposka, ordered that all of the people in Hhudno and Vara would all have to become Latin rite, and that all baptisms would have to be performed by a Latin rite priest. It is not certain when the parish was reinstated, but in 1648 there is mention that o. Oleksij Steckovyč purchased the land for a church.⁶⁹

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

The masonry church was built in 1886/8, replacing an older wooden church of the same name which existed at least as early as [1828]. A 4 room masonry rectory was built in 1840. At present the church building is not in use.

There is mention of a parish in Izby in 1682, when the Bishop of Kraków donated a mill to the pastor.⁷⁷

Until World War I there was a large bell here which bore the date 1325.⁷⁸

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934, but it seems that shortly before that time the entire parish had become Orthodox.

IZDEBKY, povit BereziwDEPOSITION OF THE VESTMENTS OF THE BVM

Historical Data: Birčans'kyj Deanery, then Dyniv's'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1660 and was renovated in 1890 and in 1928. Now only a wooden cross marks the place of the church which was destroyed. In 1945, the last pastor, o. Orest Kalužnjac'kyj, was sealed up in a cellar and left to die by the Poles.

The land for the village was given to the Polish nobleman Izdebski by King Kazymyr the Great in the 14th century. A Polish church was built on the site of the original church.

On January 23, 1593, the owner, Katerina Waposka, ordered that all of the people in Izdebky would all have to become Latin rite, and that all baptisms would have to be performed by a Latin rite priest. The Ukrainians attended services in Volodž until 1660 when they built their own church. In 1670 the pastor purchased property for 400 zloty which was for the support of the parish.⁷⁹

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

JAROSLAV (Jarosláv), povit JaroslavTRANSFIGURATION

Historical Data: Jaroslavs'kyj Deanery. The masonry church was built in 1910-1912.

The first parish church in Jaroslav was built in c.1234. In 1569, the rights and privileges of the Jaroslav brotherhood were confirmed by Konstantyn Ljubomirs'kyj, ruler of part of Jaroslav. In 1675, Stanisław Koniecpolski, heir to the property of Jaroslav, gave the Jaroslav brotherhood permission to build a church on the grounds of the castle, and in 1688, Queen Maria Kazymyra assigned a specific site for its construction. Many impediments and misfortunes plagued the work, which had to be discontinued. Finally Illja Vapins'kyj, a merchant of Jaroslav, provided the funds necessary to complete the building in c.1712.

On August 15, 1766, Prince August Alexander Czartoryski added the income from the suburban church to the funds already available to make the church collegial, and provision for 6 extra priests (confessors, preachers and catechists), although all of the positions seem never to have been filled. His heir, Konstantyn Czartoryski, continued the funding at least until [1833].⁸³

In the church was a miraculous icon of the BVM, which was granted the privilege of plenary indulgence by Pope Pius VI on November 21, 1779. It disappeared in 1943, but fortunately a copy exists in the Ukrainian Catholic University of St. Clement in Rome.

Services began to be celebrated again in 1957. Re-established in 1965, it is now a Ukrainian Catholic parish in the Peremys'kyj Deanery.

Pokrova chapel was built in the 17th century, and another liturgical chapel in Zaxoronci was built in 1933. Both still existed in [1939].

KAMINKA STARE SELO (Kamionka Starawieś), povit Rava Rus'ka RESURRECTION

Historical Data: Potelyc'kyj Deanery, then Rav's'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church was built in 1900, replacing an older wooden church which had been built in 1645.

The village (stare selo) of Kaminka voloska was founded in the 14th century and seems to have had a parish almost from the beginning. The oldest parish in time was divided into three - Kaminka lisova, Kaminka lypnyk and the original parish of Kaminka voloska, which was also called Kaminka stare selo.

In 1883 there was a reorganization of the territories of the parishes and a fourth parish was established, known as Kaminka nova. The new parish included most of the large localities formerly served from the other churches.

KAMJANA (Kamiana, Kamienna), povit Hrybiv ST. PARASKEVIJA

Historical Data: Mušyns'kyj Deanery, then Hrybivs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1805/06 and was rebuilt in 1892. It replaced an older church of the same name, the cross of which stands in front of the present church, which is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.⁸⁸

The first church was built shortly after 1636, according to a decree of donation of the land to o. Petro Pryslops'kyj and his successors, dated August 18, 1636. This donation was confirmed by the Bishop of Kraków in 1637 and was reconfirmed in 1740.⁸⁹ For at least a hundred years the priests were all his descendents. O. Ivan Pryslops'kyj, one of the family, transcribed liturgical books into the Lemko dialect around the year 1736, and these manuscripts were still in the church until World War II, but now are lost.

Regular church records from 1876 and partial records from 1674 still existed in [1936].

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934. In [1934], the number of Ukrainian Catholics was reported as uncertain, and by [1936] the whole parish had become Orthodox.

ST. NICHOLAS [1828-1875]

ANNUNCIATION [1877-1939]

Historical Data: Vysočans'kyj Deanery. The masonry church was built in 1900, replacing an older wooden church which had been built in 1813/14. There was also a liturgical chapel which was built in 1935.

From 1800 until 1813 there was only one church in Komarnyky. In 1813, construction was begun on a new church, but because of a dispute between the owner and Havryjil Ploskanyč, the head of the village, the parish split into two parts, one on the right side and the other on the left side of the river Stryj. The pastor tried to avoid the trouble and served both churches.⁹⁴

KRAKIV (KRAKÓW)ST. NORBERT*EXALTATION OF THE HOLY CROSS

Historical Data: The masonry church was acquired by the Ukrainian Catholic Church in 1808, and was renovated in 1885 and in 1924. It is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.

Kraków occupies a unique position in the history of the Eparchy of Peremyšl'. In the 18th century, the Basilians had a large monastery in Warsaw, close to the king's palace of Łazienki. King Stanisław August Poniatowski proposed that they change this for a Bernardine monastery in Kraków. Rome agreed, as the Basilians were needed to teach in Kraków and take care of the students. The funds set aside for Warsaw were supposed to be transferred to Kraków but with the partition of Poland they were lost, so the Basilians could not pay the contribution imposed by the Austrian government. The monastery was therefore confiscated and given to the Germans, who turned it into a hotel.

The government, seeing the need of the Ukrainian parish in Kraków, gave the Ukrainians a chapel by the Latin rite Franciscan church and let the priests live in the Franciscan priory.

400 zloty were assigned as an annual salary for the pastor plus 12 zloty for his accommodation and 60 zloty for the upkeep of the church. Since neither the Ukrainians nor the Franciscans were satisfied with this arrangement, on February 26, 1808, at the request of Metropolitan Anhelovyč, the Ukrainians were given a former monastery of the Norbertine Sisters with the Church of St. Norbert.

The parish belonged to the Eparchy of Xolm until August 22, 1852, when it passed to the Eparchy of Peremyśl'. Its territory included the cities of Velyčka, Boxnja, Tarniv, Auschwitz and Pilsen and also the whole provinces of Silesia and Moravia.¹⁰⁰

The pastor and other priests were usually professors or students at the Jagelonski University in Kraków. It was independent of a deanery until 1930, when it became part of the Ležajs'kyj Deanery.

The feast day of the church had already been Exaltation of the Holy Cross for some time, but the name of the church was not officially changed from St. Norbert to Exaltation of the Holy Cross until [1934].

The Church of St. Norbert/Holy Cross was given to the Latin rite Salatine Fathers in 1947. The Ukrainian Catholics since December 18, 1957 have had a parish (Exaltation of the Holy Cross) in Kraków in the Krakivs'ko-Krynyc'kyj Deanery. Services are held in a chapel of St. Katerzyna Church.

KRUPEC' (Krupiec), povit Česaniv, then Ljubačiv after 1919

MOST HOLY TRINITY

DEPOSITION OF THE VESTMENTS OF THE BVM

Historical Data: Potelyc'kyj Deanery, then Česanivs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church, Deposition of the Vestments of the BVM, was built in 1899, replacing an older wooden church, Most Holy Trinity, which had been built in 1701/11.

At one time, there was a Basilian monastery in Krupec', and 3 churches - Holy Trinity, Presentation of the BVM and Annunciation, but by [1830] only Most Holy Trinity remained. In the church was a document of permanent funding, given by John Lyps'kyj on May 17, 1736.

In 1813 the four churches in Belzec', Krupec', Lyps'ko and Lyps'ka volja were joined as one parish, with the main church as St. Onufrij in Lyps'ko. Krupec' was a filial church of Lyps'ko from 1813 until 1845 when Lyps'ko was divided into two curatorships, Belzec' and Krupec', each with an independent administrator. In 1887 Krupec' became an independent parish, and Lyps'ko became its filial church.

KRYNYCJA (Krynica), povit Novyj SańčEPIPHANY

Historical Data: Mušyns'kyj Deanery. The masonry church was built in 1872 and was renovated in 1930. It replaced an older wooden church which had been built in c.1651, after the first church had burned. The masonry church is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.

In 1547, the Bishop of Kraków assigned land for the village and the parish. The property was not sufficient, so in 1581 permission was given to purchase more.¹⁰⁶

From 1844 until 1848 there were two administrators - one in Krynycja and another in Povoroznyk - then Povoroznyk was made an independent chapel.

Bishop Josyf Sembratovyč (1870-1882, +1900), son of the pastor, was born here on November 8, 1821.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934. The present parish (Sts. Peter and Paul) was established on April 11, 1982 and is now a Ukrainian Catholic parish in the Krakivs'ko-Krynyc'kyj Deanery. Services were celebrated in a Latin rite church until 1985, and since then in a chapel in the priest's residence.

LAVRIV (Ławrów), povit Staryj SambirST. ONUFRIJ

Historical Data: Starosambirs'kyj Deanery. The masonry church of St. Onufrij was built in 1675/85 and was renovated in 1875 and in 1910. The 18th century church of St. John the Baptist was renovated in 1930. Both churches were under the direction of the Basilian Fathers.

The OSBM monastery in Lavriv was founded in the 13th century and the village of Lavriv grew up around the monastery, thus the name "Lavriv". In 1825, fire destroyed both the monastery and the monastic church and by 1829 St. Josafat chapel had been built and the monastery buildings had been restored.¹¹⁰ In [1833] the monastic library contained 655 books - a considerable number for the time.

LUBNA (Łubna), powiat BerezivST. ONUFRIJ

Historical Data: Birčans'kyj Deanery, then Dynivs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church was built in 1800 and was renovated in 1859. In 1703 the village and earlier church were burned by the Swedish soldiers and the people built a new wooden church which was used until 1800. The masonry church has been dismantled to make place for a school playground.¹¹⁷

On January 23, 1593, the owner, Katerina Waposka, ordered that all of the people in Lubna would all have to become Latin rite, and that all baptisms would have to be performed by a Latin rite priest. In 1702, land was purchased by o. Burdaševs'kyj for 300 zloty and in 1718 another property was bought by his son for 2,000 zloty.¹¹⁸

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

LYPS'KO (Lipsko), povit ČesanivST. ONUFRIJ

Historical Data: Potelyc'kyj Deanery, then Česanivs'kyj Deanery after World War I.

The wooden church was built in 1887, replacing an older wooden church of the same name. An even older wooden church had been sold in 1827 because of its deteriorated state.

In 1813 the four churches in Belzec', Krupec', Lyps'ko and Lyps'ka volja were joined as one parish, with St. Onufrij in Lyps'ko as the main church.

In 1845, the administration of the parish was divided into two "curatiae", Belzec' and Krupec', each with a separate administrator, although Lyps'ko was still nominally the main church. Finally in 1887, Belzec' and Krupec' were made independent parishes and Lyps'ko became a filial church of Krupec'. After World War I, no church is mentioned in Lyps'ko, which is listed only as a locality served by the priest.

STS. COSMAS AND DAMIAN

Historical Data: Byc'kyj Deanery, then Horlyc'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church was built in 1806 and was renovated in 1908. Banjas and an iconostas were added in 1864. The church is now being used by Latin rite Catholics and the Ukrainian Catholics have a parish in Pantna. An older church was still standing in [1936]

In 1849 the people suffered a famine, and in 1873 there was a cholera epidemic which took a great toll of lives in the village.¹²²

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

ST. PARASKEVIJA

Historical Data: Birčans'kyj Deanery. The masonry church was built in 1897, replacing an older wooden church of the same name which existed at least as early as [1830]. It was an independent chapel until [1846], when it became a filial church of Lypa. After the Ukrainians were expelled in the 1940's, the village lands were made into a collective farm, and the church was used to store, among other things, fertilizer. The chemical reaction has caused the walls to crumble and the building is in sad shape.¹²³

MEŽYBRID (Międzybrodzie, Międzybrodź), povit SjanikDESCENT OF THE HOLY SPIRIT
MOST HOLY TRINITY

Historical Data: Sjanic'kyj Deanery. The masonry church of Most Holy Trinity was built in 1901. An older wooden church, Descent of the Holy Spirit had been built in 1839; it burned down in 1866 and a new wooden church was erected, in which were kept the gospel books and icons from the old church in Lišnja. The masonry church is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.

The first wooden church was built in 1784 by o. Ivan Vajtsovyč¹²⁶. In early times, Mežybrid was a main parish and Lišnja was its filial church. In 1796, the villages of Mežybrid and Trepča, which were located on opposite sides of the River Sjan, were joined. Lišnja, which at that time had only 10 or 20 Ukrainian Catholics, was transferred to the parish of Ol'xivci and its church was closed. Mežybrid was still an independent chapel, but in actual fact was almost always without a priest, and both places were taken care of by the pastor of Trepča.

The river proved to be an obstacle, so in 1843 the pastor of Trepča was given an assistant who lived in Mežybrid as administrator. In 1845 Mežybrid was made an independent assistantship, but the income was not sufficient to support a priest, and they were frequently changed. In 1878 the priest's house burned, and a place in Sjanik had to be rented.¹²⁷

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

MOXNAČKA NYŽNA (Mochnaczka Niżna), povit Novyj Sanč ST. MICHAEL

Historical Data: Mušyns'kyj Deanery. The wooden church was built in 1846 and was renovated in 1923 and in 1929. It replaced an older wooden church of the same name which existed at least as early as [1828]. It is being used now by Latin rite Catholics.

There was also a wooden chapel, Nativity of the BVM, which was built in 1787. This chapel is not mentioned until after World War I, however, so it possibly was acquired from elsewhere. At present it still stands, but is not being used.

The parish was established July 16, 1626, and there was a old bell dated from that year which weighed 300 kilograms. In 1873, 94 parishioners died in a cholera epidemic.¹³⁰

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

Historical Data: Byc'kyj Deanery, then Horlyc'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1843 and was renovated in 1927. It replaced an older wooden church of the same name which existed at least as early as [1791] when the rectory was built and the priest moved there from Pryslyp.¹³⁸ There was also a wooden liturgical chapel of the Dormition which was built in 1889. From 1967 until 1984 services were celebrated only 3 times a year, but since 1984 there have been regular services, although the mountain roads are barely usable in winter.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934. The present parish (St. Michael) was re-established in 1967 and is now a Ukrainian Catholic parish in the Krakivs'ko-Krynyc'kyj Deanery.

NOVYJ SANČ (Nowy Sącz), povit Novyj Sanč ST. NICHOLAS

Historical Data: Mušyns'kyj Deanery. The masonry chapel (now destroyed) was blessed in 1911. It was only a liturgical chapel at first, then in [1926] it was a filial church of Matijeva until 1927 when it was made an independent assistantship.

In 1440, Cardinal Isidore, returning from the Council of Florence, celebrated Good Friday services in Novyj Sanč.

In 1895 Rus'ka bursa, a hospice for students in Novyj Sanč, was organized, which in 1900 accommodated 60 students. In 1901 Ukrajins'ka bursa was organized with 50 students. In 1914, Rus'ka bursa was closed because of Russian leanings and in 1921 the property was sold by court order. The students had services at a side altar of the Latin rite church. In 1902 church building was begun, but the government said that the foundation were too weak for a three meter high structure. The Prosvita society then obtained three rooms which were used until the Ukrainians were expelled in the 1940's.¹⁴⁰

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934. It is now a Ukrainian Catholic parish in the Krakivs'ko-Krynyc'kyj Deanery.

PAVLOKOMA (Pawłokoma), povit BerezivPOKROVA

Historical Data: Birčans'kyj Deanery, then Dyniv'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church was built in 1909, replacing an older masonry church which had been built in 1787 and was renovated in 1879. The older church was damaged by fire and the people went for services in Sil'nycja until 1875. Because the people of Sil'nycja did not want to contribute to the reconstruction of the church in Pavlokoma, they changed to the Latin rite.¹⁴⁵ Most of the villagers (all but 40 women and children, who were expelled), including the last pastor, were gathered into the church and killed on March 3, 1945. Later the building was dismantled and only the masonry bell tower remains.¹⁴⁶

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

PEREHRYMKA (Pielgrzymka), повіт Jasło

ST. MICHAEL THE ARCHANGEL

Historical Data: Dukljans'kyj Deanery. The wooden church was built in 1870, replacing an older wooden church of the same name which existed at least as early as [1828], and which was visited by Bishop Snihurs'kyj in 1833. It is now being used by the Orthodox.

Perehrymka existed already in the 15th century, and the property belonged to the Samokljask family, and later of the Mnški family. Maryna Mnška lived in Perehrymka with her husband, Dmytro Samozvanec'; from there she went to Moscow and became tsarina [in 1605]. She donated two felons from the Kremlyn to the church in Perehrymka and in [1936] they were still in good condition.¹⁴⁹

The well known professor of scripture, o. Tyt Myškovs'kyj was born in Perehrymka on October 14, 1861.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

PEREMYŠL' (Przemyśl), povit Peremyśl'

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST Cathedral

Historical Data: Peremys'kyj Deanery. The first stone cathedral church of St. John the Baptist was constructed within the castle walls in 1123, in the time of the Ruthenian Prince Volodar of Peremyśl'. In 1412, King Wladislaw Jagello of Poland confiscated it and gave it to the Poles. In 1452 the building was demolished, the stones being used in the construction of the new Latin rite cathedral. The Ruthenians built a wooden cathedral in the place called "vladyče".

This wooden cathedral eventually fell into disrepair, so the decision was made to demolish it and to begin the construction of a new cathedral. The work was begun in 1777, but only the bell tower was completed in 1784 when the land and the funds were confiscated by Emperor Josyf II of Austria. In compensation, the emperor gave the Ukrainians a former Carmelite church, dating from 1630, which was consecrated as the Ukrainian Cathedral on July 5, 1785. It served as the cathedral until the Ukrainians were expelled, and has been used by the Latin rite Catholics since 1946.

The parish was re-established in 1957 and services were held in the Latin rite church of the Sacred Heart. The Ukrainians had hopes to regain their cathedral after the fall of communism in Poland, but instead in 1991 they were given Sacred Heart as their cathedral, and St. John the Baptist was taken by the Carmelites. The name Sacred Heart has recently been changed to St. John the Baptist, and there are plans to instal a valuable 17th century ikonostas.

In Zasjanna, there was a masonry chapel dedicated to the Sufferings of the BVM, which was built in 1935 and which belonged to the Basilian Order.¹⁵⁰

The former Ukrainian Catholic Eparchial Seminary and the Institute of Theological Studies (est. 1845), close to the cathedral, had a large chapel, and many of the cathedral priests taught at the seminary, as well as at other schools in Peremyśl'.

The Institute for Cantors and School Teachers was founded in 1818. After 1847 the rectors of the cathedral were also the directors of the institute.

The Chorus Canentium Cathedralis (cathedral choir and cantors) was organized in 1829. The choir had an average of from 18 to 24 members with four soloists and there were two cantors.

A retirement home for retired or sick cantors, founded by o. Matvij Dobrjans'kyj, was under the direction of the Peremyśl' Chapter.

¹⁵⁰ In 1785 there were 150 Ukrainian Catholics, 730 Latin rite Catholics and 30 Jews in Zasjanna. Church and parish.

A printing house was opened at the cathedral in 1829 and remained one of the benefices of the cathedral until 1840 when its direction was given to the Chapter.

POKROVA

Historical Data: Ol'xovec'kyj Deanery, then Bukivs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church was built in 1790 and was renovated in 1927. The village was burned on March 28, 1946 and the villagers were evacuated, their plots being joined to form a collective farm. The church was rebuilt into a barn.¹⁵⁴

The earliest mention of the village was from the year 1400. During the Tartar invasion the people hid in the church, but were burned inside with the priest by the Tartars. A chapel was built at the burned out site, in which services were held until 1790.¹⁵⁵

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

RIPNYK (Rzepnik), povit KorosnoST. PARASKEVLJA

Historical Data: Dukljans'kyj Deanery, then Korosnjans'kyj Deanery after 1842. The masonry church was built in 1914, replacing an older wooden church of the same name which had been built in 1701 and had been renovated and blessed in 1887. (In 1882 a sobriety society was established in the parish, and the owners of the local pubs hired an arsonist to torch the church.¹⁶³ It was probably after some fire damage that it had to be rebuilt and blessed in 1887.)

Mention of a parish is made already in 1581, when the owner gave permission to Damjan Ban'kovs'kyj to purchase land for the parish, with the condition that the priest would always come from his family.¹⁶⁴ The first pastor would therefore have been named Ban'kovs'kyj.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

SJANIK (Sanok), povit SjanikDESCENT OF THE HOLY SPIRIT*MOST HOLY TRINITY

(old title of eparchy- Peremyśl', Sambir and Sjanik)

Historical Data: Sjanic'kyj Deanery. The beginnings of the church in Sjanik go back to very early times, and in fact, the name "Sjanok" is of old Ukrainian origin. After the Battle with the Polovci (1103) some of the prisoners were settled by the Ukrainian prince near Sjanik in the locality called Polovci. The first documented reference to Sjanik is contained in the Halyc'ko-Volyns'ka Litopys' under the year 1150, in which the Hungarian king occupied the city with the surrounding villages and took the mayor prisoner.

The old castle in Sjanik was built in the time of the Ukrainian princes, and the first church was located within the castle compound, as was the custom of Ukrainian princes. Mention of Sjanik is made in 1202 and 1206, that the widow of Prince Roman, escaping from Halyč with her children Danylo and Vasylo, met in Sjanik with the Hungarian King Geza. The castle grounds are still in the same place, but the city itself is not. The present city dates from 1340, during the reign of King Kazymyr of Poland, and in 1366 the king gave the city the Magdeburg privilege.

According to tradition, there have been five churches in the city. The first, located within the castle compound, was the wooden church of St. Dmytro, which possessed a miraculous ikon of the Crucified Christ. In 1550, when the sister of King Sigismund August intended to transfer to Sjanik, she wanted to dismantle the church to build the church of St. Nicholas "on the walls" (the exact place is unknown, but from the name it was probably built into the walls of the city). The king approved in 1551. This second church of St. Nicholas lasted until 1667 when King Sigismund ordered it to be transferred to a place he gave to the Ukrainians and if the transfer did not take place within three days, the new property would be forfeited. The Ukrainians took the wooden church from the village of Jaseniv, which was not being used at the time, and moved it within the three days to the site. From 1784 until 1789, during the pastorship of o. Ivan Kunevyč, the masonry church of Holy Spirit, (the fourth church) was built on the same site, thanks to the generosity of the nobility of the Sjanik region, especially Counts Mnišek and Stadnyc'kyj. In 1827 it was rebuilt at government expense and the masonry bell tower was constructed. This church contained the ikon of the crucified Christ from the first church, as well as a fragment of the True Cross. The church and bell tower were restructured in 1876, in 1907 and in 1933. The name was changed from Descent of the Holy Spirit to Most Holy Trinity in [1909]. It is now being used by the Orthodox.

The fifth church, Nativity of the BVM, existed in the suburb of Posada sjanic'ka, close to the residence of the bishop. It was sold by the Austrian government in 1790, together with the surrounding grounds, because of a false report that it had been so damaged by fire as to be unusable. One part of the property, that by the bishop's house¹⁷¹, was taken by a certain Mr. Ščerbyc'kyj, one part by the the laity, and the rest (one tenth) was left to the church. Only an ¹⁷¹ Bishop Antin Vynnyč'kyj from 1668 until 1675 lived in Sjanik and wanted to have a separate eparchy in Sjanik, but after his death in 1679 the plans were abandoned, and only the addition of "Sjanik" to the title of the eparchy remained.

ikon of the BVM remained from this church in [1936]. The last known pastor was o. Ivan Vajcovyč, mentioned in 1772.

St. Onufrij Monastery was also at one time in Sjanik, but there is no certain information about it.

In 1551 a school existed in which were transcribed manuscript church books and there exists an Apostle from that year. Myxajlo Vasylovyč, the son of the Protopresbyter of Sjanik, translated the Gospels into the Ukrainian language. The original, from the year 1556, was found in Peresopnycja and is known as the Peresopnyc'ka Jevanhelija.¹⁷²

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934. Re-established in 1993, it is now a Ukrainian Catholic parish in the Peremys'kyj Deanery.

SVJATKOVA (Świątkowa, Swiontkowa), povit Jasło ST. MICHAEL

Historical Data: Byc'kyj Deanery, then Dukljans'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1756/57. It was closed for 39 years after World War II, and is presently being used by Latin rite Catholics.

The village in 1510 belonged to the Stadnyc'kyj family and in 1581 a Ukrainian pastor is known to have been in the parish. In 1873 there was a cholera epidemic, in 1887 the crops were ruined by a "great freeze", in 1889 the locality was struck by drought and in 1899 and 1934 floods greatly damaged the village.

In 1918, under the leadership of the pastor, a Rus'ka narodna rada was formed, with the intention to form a Lemko republic and join it to Czechoslovakia, but it was soon liquidated by the Polish legionnaires.¹⁸³

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

TATARY, povit SambirNATIVITY OF THE BVM

Historical Data: Mokrjans'kyj Deanery, then Lučans'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1894, replacing an older wooden church of the same name which had been built in 1647, and was the first church in Tatory.

According to the letter of foundation of the parish, written in Stryj by King Jan Kazymyr on October 23, 1660, he had given fields to this benefice earlier during his reign (1649-1669). The name Tatory is derived from the fact that the place had been settled by a colony of Tartars who had been given their freedom by Queen Bona, the wife of Sigismund I, in the early 16th century.¹⁸⁹

Historical Data: Dukljans'kyj Deanery. The masonry church was built in 1787 and was renovated in 1908 and in 1931. The church is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.

The first mention of a church is from 1537. It is again mentioned in 1633. The village was a center of Muscovite sympathy and even before World War I, some of the villagers, together with those from Svjatкова, made pilgrimages to Orthodox centers in Kyiv. During World War I [in 1914], the village was devastated and burned as the Russians approached, and the population was transported to Hungary. When the Russians left in 1915, they returned. In 1927 most of the people in Tyljava and Terstjana became Orthodox.¹⁹⁶

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

TYLYČ (Tylicz), povit Novyj SančSTS. COSMAS AND DAMIAN

Historical Data: Mušyns'kyj Deanery. The wooden church was built in 1743 and is now being used as a museum.

The village, first called Orava, is mentioned in the Halyc'ko-Volyns'ka Lytopys' (13th century). It was destroyed by Tartars, and it was rebuilt in 1363 and the name was changed to Mastko. In 1391, it became the property of the Latin Bishop of Kraków, and about 1400 the church was built. In 1612 the village was renamed Tylyč, after the Bishop of Kraków, Lubosz Tylytski. The church was closed in 1636, reduced to a liturgical chapel, and the people had permission to hold services only once a year. When the bishop died in 1680 the church was opened again, but was then reclosed in 1682 under the new bishop. In spite of the protests of the people, the Ukrainian bishop and of the Polish king, in 1686 it was dismantled and taken to Mušyna to build a Latin rite church. From 1686 until 1743 there was not a Ukrainian church in Tylyč.¹⁹⁷

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

ULJUČ (Ulucz), povit Dobromyl'

ST. NICHOLAS

Historical Data: Birčans'kyj Deanery, then Dynivs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1925. It was burned during the evacuation of the Ukrainians.

The village itself dates from the princes' period. Two km. from the parish church, on a hill 300 meters high overlooking the Sjan river, there was a former Basilian church of the Ascension, built in 1510. The monastery, which also ran a school for woodcarvers at one time, was suppressed by Joseph II in the late 18th century and the monks were transferred to Dobromyl'. A new ikonostas had been painted in 1683.²⁰² The church, now a museum, is the oldest surviving Ukrainian church building in Poland.

From 1842 until 1861 there were 2 administrators in the parish 1) in Uljuč and 2) in Dobra. Then there was again one pastor for both until [1867] when Dobra became an independent chapel.

The composer of the Ukrainian national anthem, o. Myxajlo Verbyc'kyj, was born in Uljuč in 1815.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934.

Historical Data: Byc'kyj Deanery, then Horlyc'kyj Deanery after World War I. The wooden church was built in 1786/96. It is now being used by Latin rite Catholics.

The village was founded in 1504 and the parish was established in 1539.²⁰⁴

In the cemetery still stands a wooden chapel, much deteriorated, which was built in 1879.

The parish was incorporated into the Administration of Lemkivščyna in 1934. The Ukrainians were relocated by the government after World War II, but began to return later, and in 1967 services were begun again. It is now a Ukrainian Catholic parish (Ustja Horlyc'ke) in the Krakivs'ko-Krynyc'kyj Deanery.

ZALISJE (Zalesie), povit RjašivSOBOR OF THE BVM

Historical Data: Kan'čuc'kyj Deanery, then Ležajs'kyj Deanery after World War I. The masonry church was built in 1889. A fire had destroyed the former church in 1800 and an unused Latin rite wooden church had been acquired and adapted for Byzantine rite services. This church (also Sobor of the BVM) was used until the masonry church (now Latin rite) was built.

There was also a masonry chapel in the cemetery, which was built in 1850.

BASILIAN PRIESTS WHO SERVED IN THE EPARCHY OF PEREMYŠL' and the ADMINISTRATION OF LEMKIVŠČYNA (1828-1939)

From 1617 until 1743, the center of the Basilians was in Vilnius, Lithuania, then two provinces were established in 1743 - in Lithuania and in Halyčyna-Volyn'. The Order was suppressed in the 18th and 19th centuries, except for the Province of Holy Saviour in Halyčyna which remained under Austrian rule. The general curia then resided in L'viv until 1931, when it was transferred to Rome.

The Basilian priests who were active in the Eparchy of Peremyšl' at first lived in 6 monasteries - Dobromyl' (St. Onufrij, founded in 1613¹), Drohobyč (Holy Trinity, founded in 1775²), Krexiv (St. Nicholas, founded 1613³), Krystynopil' (St. George, founded 1763⁴), Lavriv (St. Onufrij, founded 1270⁵) and Žovkva (Nativity of Christ, founded in 1682⁶). Later two more were opened - in Bukova (St. Josafat in 1901) and in Peremyšl' (Blessed Virgin Mary in 1913).

Dobromyl' was designated as "Singulare Praesidium" by Pope Leo XIII in 1882 and the Jesuits⁷ were assigned to the novitiate to implement an extensive reform, called the "Reform of Dobromyl'", and there were 20 novices in [1883-1884]. One by one the other monasteries passed to the reform - Lavriv on April 25, 1884, Krystynopil' on July 3, 1888, Žovkva in 1891, Krexiv in 1892 and Drohobyč in 1897. The novitiate was moved to Krexiv in [1903].

¹ ŠemPerem [1833], p. 210 and [1877], p. 321. In Dobromyl' in 1600, there was already a monastery and church of St. Elias. Another monastery with a small church (St. Nicholas) was built in 1613 under the patronage of Ivan Ščastnij Herbut. A new monastery and church were built on the same site in 1731. In the Dobromyl' monastery was housed the Deanery library, which contained 2,300 volumes in [1858-1861].

⁷ Besides Rev. Petro Bapst, who was Protohegumen [1903-1904], the following Jesuits - incomplete as they are not listed for some years - are mentioned as assisting with the reform: Dobromyl': Gaspar Ščepkovs'kyj 1882-1893 superior and novice master, Adalbert Baudis [1886-1888] professor and [1900] superior, Josyf Vasylevs'kyj [1886], and Matvij Šafljars'kyj [1891]. Lavriv: Felyks Zozel' [1886-1888] professor, Janyk Francys'ok [1887-1888] superior, Francys'ok Radeč'kyj [1895] superior and Josyf Vasylevs'kyj [1897] superior. Krystynopil': Avhustyn Ardan [1891] professor, Aloyzij Varol' [1897] superior, Stanyslav Lyeč' [1900] superior and Felyks Biercyns'kyj [1901] superior. Žovkva: Luka Laščyk [1900-1902] superior.

BASILIAN SISTERS

JAVORIV Monastery

The Sisters of St. Basil the Great trace their beginnings to the time of Jaroslav the Wise, who founded the monastery of St. Irene in Kyiv in 1037. At the time of the reform of men's monasteries, begun by Metropolitan Ruts'kyj in 1617, the sisters chose not to centralize, but remained as independent monasteries. During the 18th and early 19th centuries, as Moscow occupied territory of the Metropolitanate of Kyiv, the monasteries were gradually suppressed, until only two remained - in Slovita and in Javoriv, both under Austrian rule. Of these, Javoriv was in the Eparchy of Peremyšl'.

The reform was carried out in 1897-1902 under the direction of the Basilian monks, and at the Chapter of 1902 the new constitution was accepted and was approved by Metropolitan Šeptyc'kyj. Considerable growth followed, and the Javoriv monastery opened mission monasteries in the United States - in Philadelphia (1911) and in Cleveland (1912). In 1951 the constitution was modified and the General Curia with four provinces (USA Galician, USA Transcarpathian, Argentina and Europe) was created.

SISTERS SERVANTS OF MARY IMMACULATE

The Sisters Servants of Mary Immaculate were founded by Father Jeremija Lomnye'kyj, OSBM, Father Kyrylo Silec'kyj, and Myxajlyna Hordaševs'ka, who became the first major superior as Sr. Josafata. The constitutions were approved in 1892 and the first chapter was held in 1902. In 1932 the congregation was raised to the status of papal institute and in 1934 three provinces (Halyčyna, Canada and Brazil) held their first general chapter in Lviv.

² Due mostly to a spreading cholera epidemic, 71 priests died in 1831 alone. In [1831] there were 80 parishes, 84 chapels and 26 assistantships vacant whereas in [1833] there were 113 parishes, 101 chapels and 23 assistantships vacant.

³ Another epidemic, made worse by famine, took a heavy toll on the population in 1847-1848.

THE EPARCHY OF PEREMYŠL' IN RELATION TO CHANGES IN POLITICAL BOUNDARIES 1772-1995

1772-1918 From the partitions of Poland until World War I the whole eparchy was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

1918-1939 From World War I until Poland was partitioned between Germany and the Soviet Union, the whole eparchy was part of Poland

1939-1944 From 1939 to 1944, the territory of the eparchy was divided under Germany and the Soviet Union. From 1941 to 1944 the whole territory was occupied by Germany

1944-1991 The western part of the former eparchy was in Poland and the eastern part was in the Soviet Union

In Poland the eparchy and parishes were suppressed and most of the Ukrainian Catholics were deported to the Soviet Union or to former German territories which had been taken from Germany according to the Treaty of Yalta. Beginning in 1957 the Ukrainian Catholics were permitted to form parishes and have services.

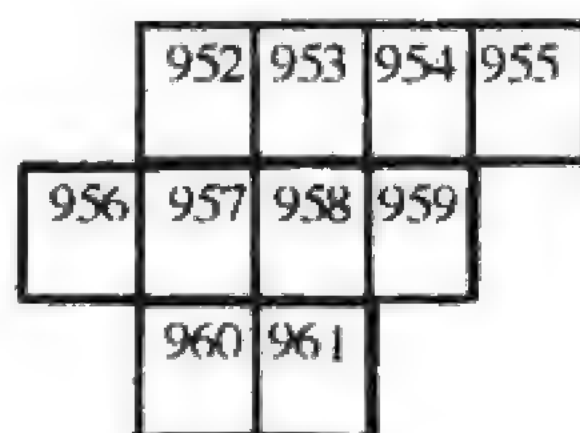

In the Soviet Union, which was an atheistic state, religion was suppressed but survived underground.

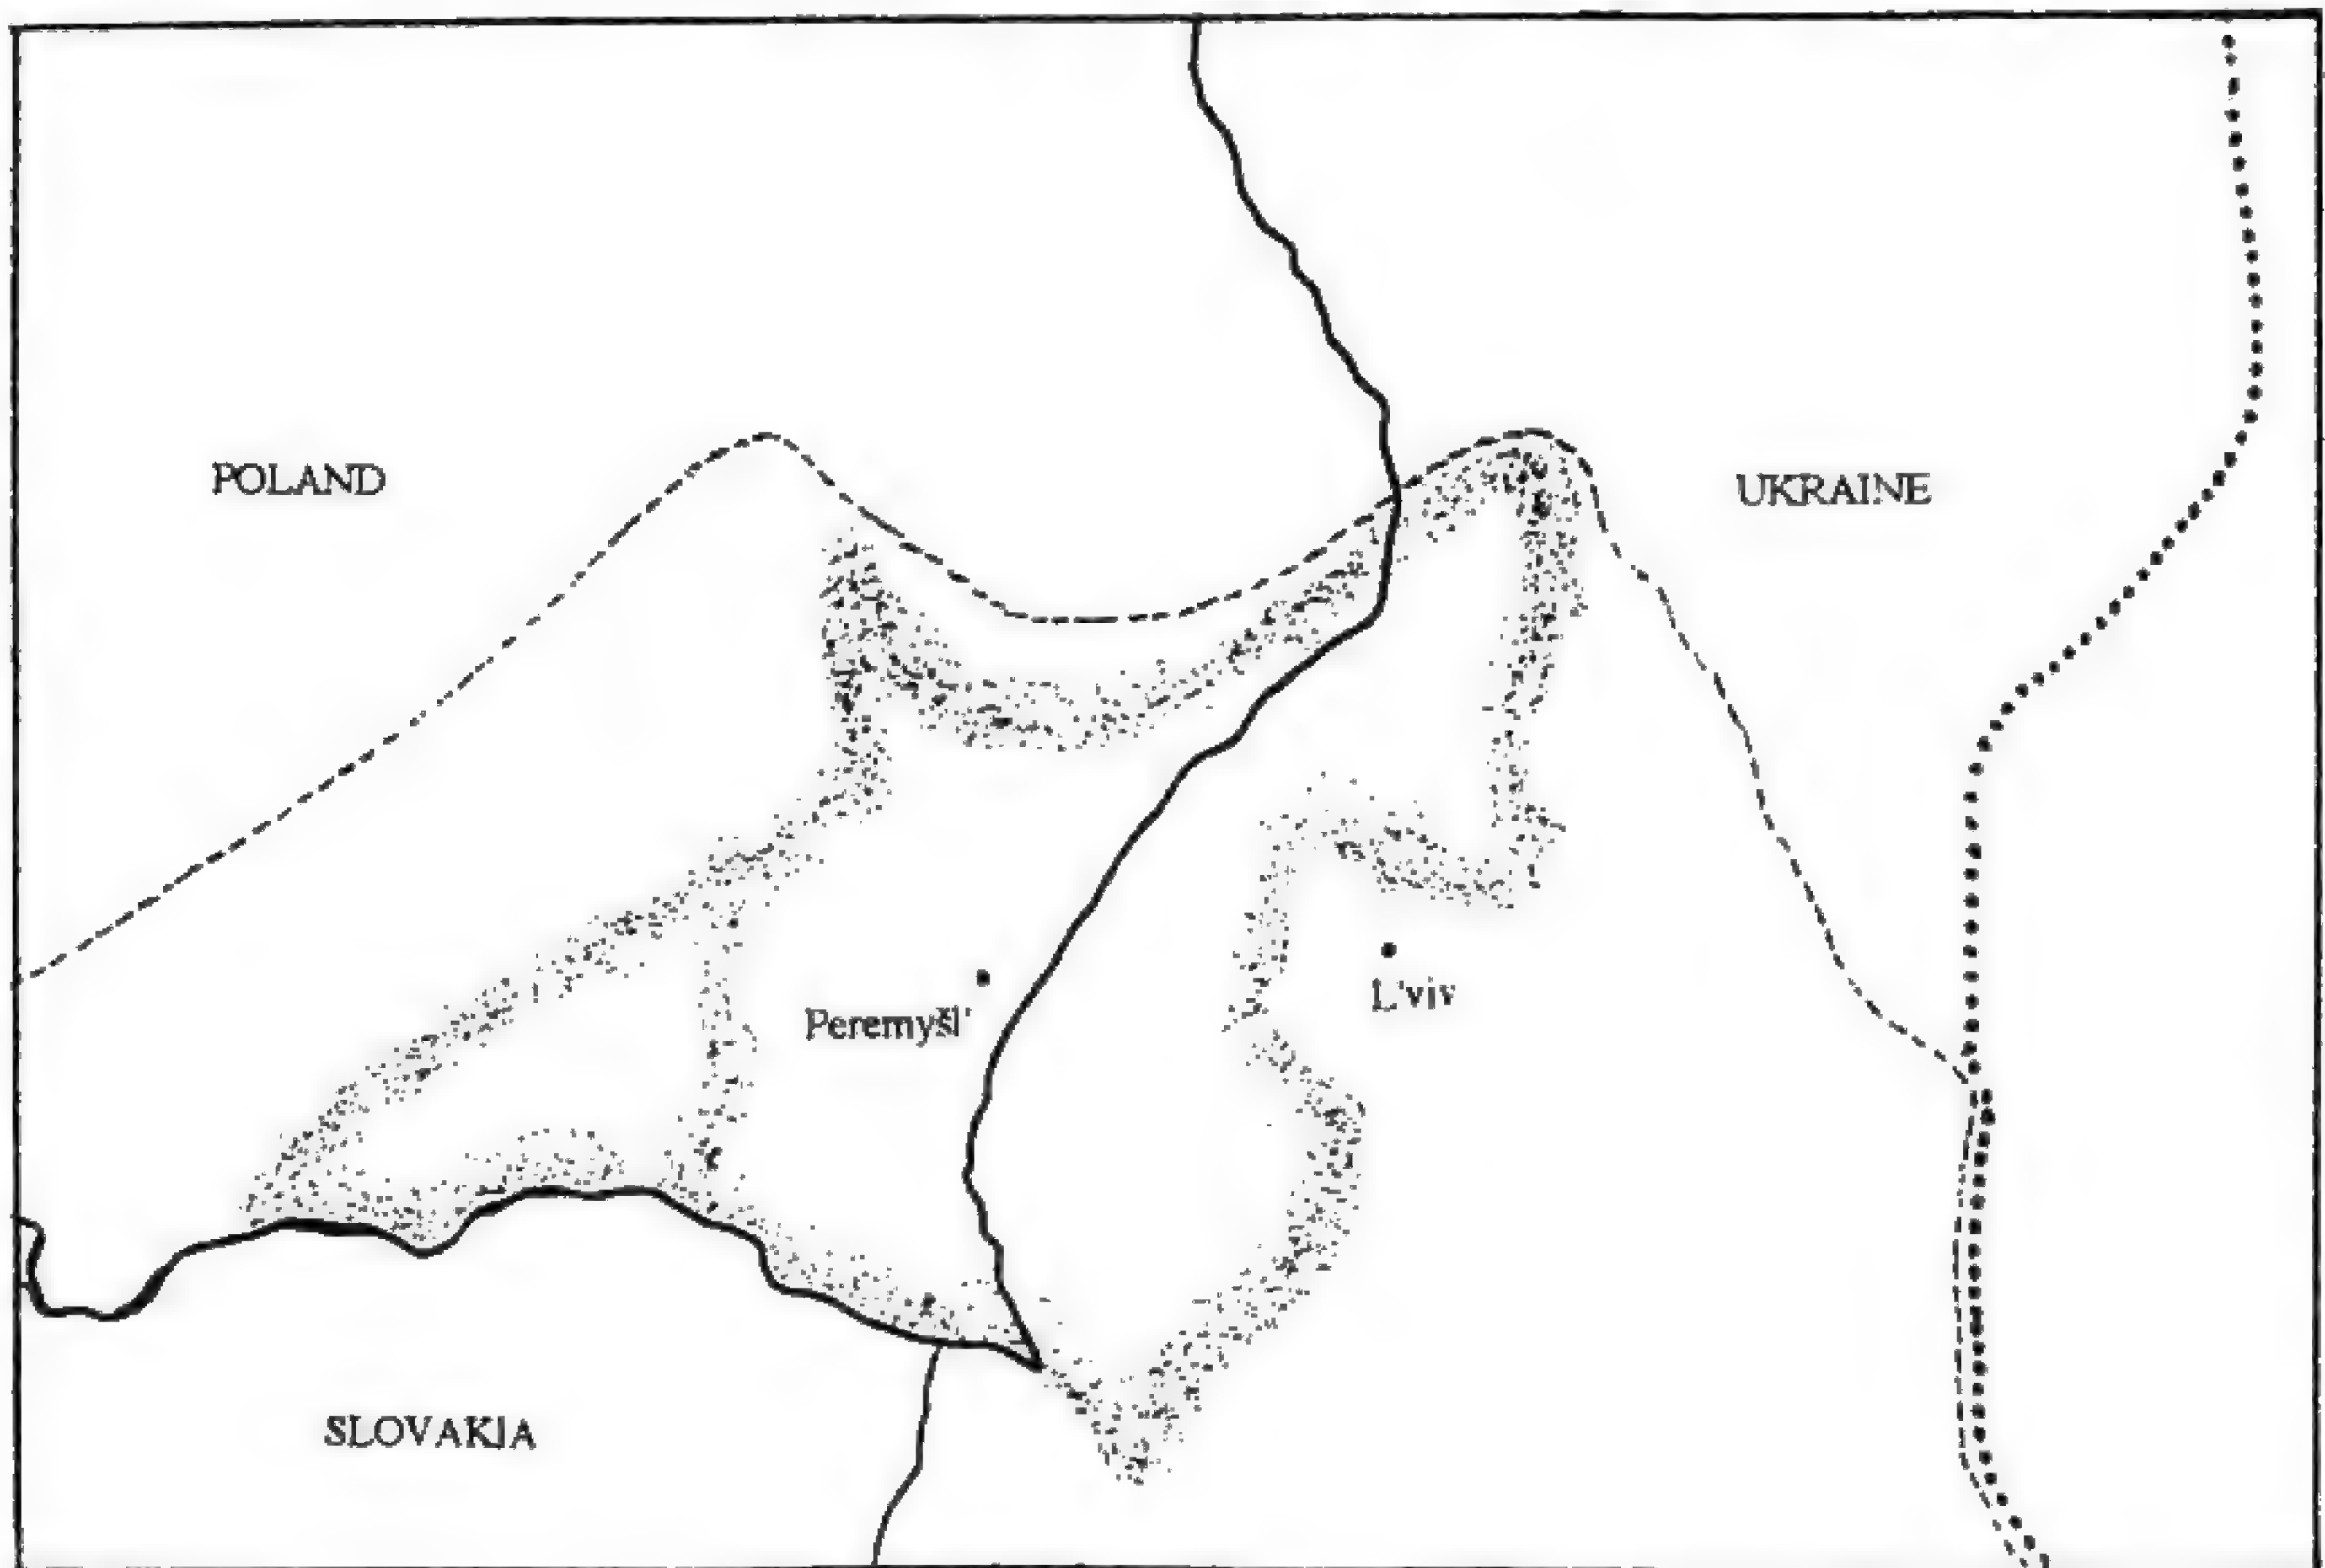

1991- When Ukraine gained her independence from the Soviet Union after the collapse of communism, the eastern part of the Eparchy of Peremyšl' was included in the Archeparchy of L'viv. The western part, which now includes the Ukrainian diaspora in all of Poland, was re-established as an eparchy in 1991.

On the opposite page is a map which shows the present boundaries of Ukraine. The lower map is an enlargement of the section which shows the location of the Eparchy of Peremyšl' until 1944 with a division for the Apostolic Administration of Lemkivščyna (which was part of the eparchy until 1934). Also shown is the part of the boundary of Austria-Hungary which concerned the eparchy until 1918 and the part of the eastern boundary of Poland which concerned, not only Peremyšl', but also the whole Archeparchy of L'viv as well from 1918 until 1939. To help focus the actual locations, there have also been shown the present boundaries of Poland, the Federal Republic of Slovakia and Ukraine which have not changed since 1944

On pages 952-961 are detailed sections of the eparchy showing boundaries of the povits and deaneries as they were in 1939, the main churches (with pastors, administrators or independent assistants) and filial churches (served by a priest from a main church). The sections are contiguous and run from west to east, beginning with the northern part of the eparchy. Below is a general scheme of the sections as they fit together.

De Potestate Metropolitaram Kiaviensium in Clerum Regularem (1595-1805). "Analecta OSBM": Opera No. 27. Rome 1973. 196 pages.

This work, written in the Latin language, deals with the reform of monastic life and the centralization of Ukrainian and Bielorrussian monasteries in 1617 by the Metropolitan of Kyiv, Josyf Veljamyn Rutskyj. Until that year, each monastery was autonomous, depending only upon the local bishop. Metropolitan Rutskyj unified them all, taking them from the jurisdiction of their respective bishops and introducing one common rule for all. He also introduced the election of one centralized administration, dependent directly upon the Metropolitan of Kyiv.

This dependence was not in the beginning clearly delineated and therefore there were disagreements about the extent of the metropolitan's jurisdiction over the monks. After much prolonged discussion, an agreement was finally reached and the authority of the metropolitan over the monks was limited, in part at the Chapter of monastic delegates in 1686 and still more at the Chapter in Dubno in 1743.

The author presents the main problems and the discussions which took place and the definite agreements between the monks and the metropolitans. At the end of the work are lists of all monasteries in 1748 and in 1774. In 1774 there were 144 monasteries.

Ukrainian and Armenian Pontifical Seminaries of Lviv (1665-1784). "Analecta OSBM", Opera No. 29. Rome 1975. xxvii + 280 pages.

The work begins with an introduction of 108 pages, in which is given short histories of all seminaries which existed in the Catholic Metropolitanate of Kyiv and of 9 pontifical colleges/seminaries attended by Ukrainian and Bielorrussian students.

There follows an extensive history of the Ukrainian and Armenian Pontifical Seminaries in Lviv. The Armenian Seminary, founded in 1665 and the Ukrainian, founded in 1709, for various reasons coexisted under one roof and one rectorship, but always retained their separate identities. In 1784, Emperor Josyf II of Austria closed both seminaries and transferred the students to the Central Seminary of Lviv, which he had organized.

At the end is a list of Ukrainian students with biographical information about each.

Byzantine Kyivan Rite Metropolitanates, Eparchies and Exarchates: Nomenclature and Statistics. Editiones Universitatis Catholicae Ucrainorum S. Clementis Papae, Opera No. 54, Sacrum Ucrainae Millenium, No. 1. Rome 1980. 171 pages.

In the work is a list of all metropolitanates, eparchies and exarchates which existed in Ukraine and in diaspora from 1740 until 1980 with nomenclature and statistics taken from semi-official Catholic publications. Extracts from the Annuario Pontificio:

nomenclature (1747-1980), statistics (1943-1980), from the Official Catholic Directory (1914-1979) and from the Oriental Congregation (1932-1974). Statistics of 6 Ukrainian religious communities for men and of 16 for women were taken from publications of the Oriental Congregation and from their respective catalogues. Also included are several summaries, 2 diagrams and 3 maps.

Byzantine Kyivan Rite Students in Pontifical Colleges, and in Seminaries, Universities and Institutes of Central and Western Europe (1576-1983). "Analecta OSBM", Opera No. 43. Rome 1984. 366 pages.

The first part of the work gives historical sketches and lists of students for the priesthood for 29 colleges and seminaries (1576-1983), of which most were in Central and Western Europe, except for the pontifical colleges in L'viv, Dubno and Vilno. Short histories and student lists for 5 Ukrainian religious communities for men, 12 universities and institutes, 5 Vienna seminaries and 2 Ukrainian universities are also given, as well as lists of doctors with titles and dates of the defense of their doctoral theses (from 1904 until 1983) and an integrated alphabetical index.

Schematism of the Ukrainian Catholic Church: a Survey of the Church in Diaspora. "Analecta OSBM", Opera No. 45. Rome 1988. 1,318 pages.

In this survey is included historical information for 1,175 parishes and localities in the Ukrainian diaspora arranged according to eparchies or exarchates. For each is included a list of priests who served the people, with their years as pastor or assistant, the year of opening, the year in which the present church was built, the number of faithful, baptisms, first communions, marriages and funerals in 1987 or 1988, the names of parish organizations and the year of organization, the number of children studying religion and various other items of information.

At the end of each eparchy or religious order are listed the priests serving or retired in 1988 with information regarding his birthdate and birthplace, places of study with years, ordination date, place and ordaining bishop, parishes or other service for the church with years and ecclesiastical titles which he may have received. For those who have died, the date and place of death is given, as well as the place of burial. 914 bishops, priests and deacons active in 1988 in diaspora are included.

Ukrainian religious orders and communities of men and women are included separately, with short histories, lists of monasteries or religious houses with the number of members in each in 1988 and the type of service performed. Ukrainian Catholic academic institutions and organizations in diaspora are described with historical and statistical information. Also included are two diagrams, 19 maps, 24 illustrations and 2 alphabetical indexes - one for persons and one for localities.

This is the first, and so far the only, general schematism of the Ukrainian Catholic Church in diaspora. It was commissioned by the Ukrainian Synod of Bishops in commemoration of the 1000 years anniversary of the Christianization of Ukraine.

Ukrainian Catholic Clergy in Diaspora (1751-1988): Annotated List of Priests Who Served Outside of Ukraine. Univ. Cath. Ucr. S. Clementis Papae, Opera No. 69, Sacrum Ucrainae Millenium, No. 2. Rome 1988. 284 pages.

This work is a supplement to the General Schematism of the Ukrainian Catholic Church: a Survey of the Church in Diaspora. Originally intended as an appendix to that work, it grew to the proportions of a separate book, since it includes not only the clergy active in 1988, but all the clergy who served the Ukrainian faithful in diaspora in former years as well - 1,903 bishops and priests in all. For most of them is given the date and place of birth, date and place of ordination, the name of the ordaining bishop and a list of his priestly activities in diaspora (in some cases also his service in Ukraine) with years, and the date and place of death for those who have died.

At the end there is a list of all eparchies in diaspora with a list of all parishes with their dates of establishment. Also included is a list of all DP camps and Ukrainian communities in Germany with a map and statistics about the number of people in camps and localities in 1945-1951.

Hierarchy of the Kyivan Church (861-1990). Ed. Univ. Cath. Ucr. S. Clementis Papae, Opera No. 72, Sacrum Ucrainae Millenium, No. 3. Rome 1990. 539 pages.

This work includes revised series, with documented essential biographical information, of metropolitans and bishops who belonged to the Catholic and Orthodox Kyivan Metropolitanates, both on Ukrainian territory and on ritually connected territories outside the borders of the Kyivan Metropolitanate (Transcarpathia and Bukovyna: Mukafiv, Prjaciw, Hajdudorog, Miscolc and Ėernivci) and in diaspora: Western Europe (England, Germany, France and Yugoslavia), United States, Canada, Argentina, Brazil and Australia.

In addition, there is also a chronological series of bishops and eparchies on Muscovite territories until 1458 and of Bielorrussian bishops and eparchies until 1839 because until those years they belonged and were an integral part of the Metropolitanate of Kyiv.

The series are divided into canonical jurisdictions, Constantinopolitan, Roman and Muscovite, with a separate section for Autocephalous Churches. Each is divided into eparchies, and the bishops are listed chronologically, with their years in office. Biographical information is given about each bishop, from documentary and printed sources, especially about the early bishops about whom the information is not easy to find.

There follows a revised list of bishops arranged alphabetically by eparchies, 30 pages of chronological charts from 1054 until 1990, 8 maps of eparchies in different periods, and an integrated alphabetical index of all bishops with summaries of their service.

The terminology of the author is new. He uses the term of "Muscovite National" Orthodox Church in place of "Russkaja", or "Rossijskaja" Orthodox Church and also "Greek National" Orthodox Church in place of "Constantinopolitan" Orthodox Church. He takes the position that both churches are national churches and not international or universal and that the Kyivan Church, in belonging to them was either a Greek or Muscovite colony.

This is first work of this kind. 1,173 Catholic and Orthodox bishops are included and a period of 1,130 years is covered. It is an indispensable reference work for the historian of Eastern Europe.

Ukrainian Pontifical Minor Seminary of St. Josaphat in Rome (1951-1990). - Українська Папська Мала Семінарія св. Йосафата у Римі (1951-1990). Rome 1990. 190 pages.

The work is in English, with some sections also in Ukrainian. The minor seminary is the only middle school in diaspora with Ukrainian as the teaching language. There is short illustrated history of the seminary which started in Loury, France, then transferred to Italy, first to Castelgandolfo and then to Rome, where it has been located since 1959.

The main part of the work presents the scholastic program and alphabetical list of teachers with biographical data and information regarding their teaching or other service. There follows a list of students arranged according to the years of their entrance into the seminary, with information about each arranged in chart form: date and place of birth, years of attendance at the seminary, academic levels attained and for those who went on to a major seminary, the name of the seminary and the date of their ordination if they became priests. Group pictures of students and teachers are included for each year.

There are 6 pages of full color photographs describing the various aspects of life at the seminary. At the end there is an alphabetical index of all students with the country of their provenance, and their years in the seminary.

Historical Schematism of the Eparchy of Peremyšl' including the Apostolic Administration of Lemkivščyna (1828-1939). L'viv 1995. 1,008 pages.

In this survey is included historical information concerning the eparchs, chapter, theological education, deaneries, parishes, priests and religious during the period from 1828 until the suppression of the eparchy after World War II and in the Administration of Lemkivščyna which was created in 1934. Includes annual statistics for each deanery and for the eparchy, and periodic statistics (approximately every 20 years) for each parish and filial church (c.1,300 in all), biographical information for all the priests who served in the eparchy during that period, 10 pages of maps showing the location of all the churches of the eparchy, and an alphabetical index of all the churches and many of the villages where there was not a church.

Українські церковні унії: константинопільська, римська і московська.—Three Ukrainian Church Unions: Constantinopolitan, Roman and Muscovite. Extract from "Записки Наукового Товариства ім. Шевченка" 205 (1987), 67 pages.

In the extract in the Ukrainian language is given an analysis of Ukrainian Church dependencies from three Church centers - Constantinople (Istanbul), Rome and Moscow. All three dependencies are called "Unions" since they were a kind of subordination or connection (union) with the centers. The author therefore refers to all three Uniate dependencies and their faithful as Constantinopolitan (Istanbul) Uniates, Roman Uniates and Muscovite Uniates. He presents the advantages and disadvantages in the past for each of those unions and what they have contributed to Ukrainian identity. 3rd revised edition, published under the title: Три українські церковні унії.
